Partnerships that Strengthen Communities

May is Preservation Month and the Texas Historical Commission is celebrating by offering five different regional workshops across the state. Join us in Fort Davis to discuss how to cultivate relationships that enrich our preservation efforts.

Partnerships, when managed appropriately, can broaden our audience, enhance our skillsets, and strengthen our communities. This workshop will address the importance of supporting organizational missions other than our own and how these partnerships can strengthen our communities.

Speakers will share ideas about communicating successfully with individuals, communities, and public officials during the morning portion of the workshop. The afternoon will be spent practicing consensus building skills.

Featured Speakers

- Larry Francell, Jeff Davis County
- Krista Gebbia, Preservation Texas
- Liz Jackson, Museum of the Big Bend
- Tom Michael, Marfa Public Radio
- Beth Nobles, Texas Mountain Trail Region

Workshop Facilitators

- Amy Hammons, THC County Historical Commission Outreach Program
- Matt Synatschk, THC Certified Local Government Program

Partners

Many thanks to the local partners that support this educational effort: the Jeff Davis County Historical Commission, Jeff Davis County, the City of Fort Davis, the Museum of the Big Bend, and Marfa Public Radio.
